G. At Your Direction or With Your Consent

We may disclose Personal Information when you direct us to do so, authorize the disclosure, or request an interaction that reasonably requires disclosure.

7. Sale, Sharing, and Targeted Advertising

WWR does not sell Personal Information for money or other valuable consideration.

WWR does not share Personal Information for cross-context behavioral advertising and does not process Personal Information for targeted advertising.

During the preceding twelve months, WWR has not sold or shared Personal Information as those terms are defined under the California Consumer Privacy Act.

WWR does not knowingly sell or share the Personal Information of individuals under eighteen years of age.

If WWR changes these practices, we will update this Privacy Policy, provide any notice required by law, and provide an appropriate method to opt out before beginning the new practice.

8. Cookies and Similar Technologies

A. Technologies We Use

Our website may use cookies and similar technologies that are necessary to:

- Display and operate the website;
- Maintain website security;
- Authenticate users;
- Remember settings;
- Maintain a shopping cart or account session;
- Balance website traffic;
- Prevent fraud; and
- Diagnose technical problems.

We may also use analytics technologies to understand general website traffic, performance, and use. Analytics providers are not authorized by WWR to use information collected through our website for their own cross-context behavioral advertising.

Cookie choices. When you first visit our website, a cookie banner asks for your choice. You may accept all cookies, reject optional cookies, or choose individual categories. We group the technologies on our website into three categories:

- Strictly necessary: technologies required to display and secure the website and to store your cookie choice (saved in your browser's local storage as "wwr-cookie-consent," together with the date of your choice and the version of the notice shown). These are always on.
- Analytics (optional): technologies that measure pages visited, time on site, referring pages, device and browser type, and approximate location derived from an Internet Protocol address, used to understand and improve the website. These run only if you accept them.
- Marketing (optional): technologies that measure the effectiveness of our advertising and help us present relevant product offers. These run only if you accept them. As of the Last Updated date, WWR has not activated any marketing or advertising technologies on the website; if we do, we will update this Privacy Policy to name them before they are used.

Our website host also records aggregate visit statistics (such as pages viewed and referring websites) to operate and secure the website.

Cookies do not provide us with your name, email address, or telephone number. WWR will send marketing emails or text (SMS) messages only to individuals who provide their contact information to us and, where required by law, give their consent to receive those messages. Consent to marketing text messages is not a condition of any purchase, and you may reply STOP to opt out of text messages at any time.

WWR does not use advertising or retargeting cookies to serve advertisements based on your activity across unrelated websites.

B. Cookie Controls

You can configure your browser to block or delete cookies. Blocking essential cookies may prevent certain website or account features from functioning properly.

Where the website provides a “Cookie Settings” or “Your Privacy Choices” control, you may use that control to manage nonessential technologies.

Cookie-preference link: <https://wwrigging.com> (select “Cookie settings” at the bottom of any page). You may change or withdraw your choice at any time; withdrawing consent stops optional technologies going forward.

C. Global Privacy Control and Other Opt-Out Signals

Where required by applicable law, WWR processes a recognized browser-based universal opt-out preference signal, such as Global Privacy Control, as a request to opt out of the sale of Personal Information, sharing for cross-context behavioral advertising, or targeted advertising for the browser or device transmitting the signal.

Because WWR does not presently engage in those activities, receipt of such a signal ordinarily will not change the operation of the website. If you are logged into an account and applicable law requires account-level treatment, we will apply the signal to the account when we can reasonably associate the signal with that account.

D. Traditional “Do Not Track” Signals

Some browsers offer a traditional “Do Not Track” setting. Because there is not a uniform industry standard governing traditional Do Not Track signals, our website does not separately respond to those signals.

This does not affect our processing of Global Privacy Control or another universal opt-out preference signal where applicable law requires us to honor it.

E. Collection by Other Parties

Our hosting, security, payment, and analytics providers may collect Internet, device, or usage information through technology present on our website as necessary to provide their services to WWR.

WWR does not authorize these providers to use information obtained through our website for their own cross-site behavioral advertising. Third-party websites or services reached through an external link may engage in separate tracking governed by their own privacy notices.

9. Payment and Credit Information

Payment-card transactions are processed by third-party payment providers. WWR does not intentionally store complete payment-card numbers.

The payment provider may collect payment-card details, billing information, device information, and other information necessary to authorize and process a transaction. The provider’s collection and use of that information are governed by its own privacy notice and contractual obligations.

Where WWR offers open-account or credit terms, WWR may request business-credit information, trade references, financial information, or a personal guarantee. WWR may obtain a consumer report only where it has a permissible legal purpose and has obtained any required notice, certification, consent, or authorization.

This Privacy Policy does not alter any right provided by the Fair Credit Reporting Act or another applicable credit law.

10. Retention of Personal Information

WWR retains Personal Information for no longer than reasonably necessary for the purposes for which it was collected or as otherwise permitted or required by law.

The applicable retention period depends on factors that include:

- The length of the customer, supplier, or business relationship;
- The nature and duration of an order or service;
- Product life, traceability, certification, inspection, and safety needs;
- Warranty and limitation periods;

- Tax, accounting, audit, insurance, and legal requirements;
- The need to establish, exercise, or defend legal claims;
- Fraud-prevention and cybersecurity needs;
- Contractual obligations;
- The sensitivity of the information; and
- Whether the purpose can be achieved through deidentified information.

For example:

- Account, order, invoice, shipment, testing, and certification records may be retained throughout the relationship and for an appropriate period afterward;
- Warranty, safety, incident, insurance, and litigation records may be retained through the applicable investigation, claim, litigation, or limitation period;
- Marketing information may be retained until you opt out or the information is no longer useful, with limited suppression-list information retained to honor your choice;
- Security and system logs may be retained for a period reasonably necessary for security, investigation, and system administration; and
- Privacy-request records may be retained as necessary to document compliance and prevent fraudulent requests.

When retention is no longer reasonably necessary, WWR will delete, destroy, anonymize, or otherwise dispose of Personal Information in a manner appropriate to its sensitivity, subject to backup, legal-hold, and technical limitations.

11. Information Security

WWR uses reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards designed to protect Personal Information against unauthorized access, acquisition, use, alteration, destruction, or disclosure.

These safeguards may include, as appropriate:

- Access controls;
- Authentication measures;
- Network and endpoint security;
- Vendor-management practices;
- Secure payment processing;
- Backup and recovery procedures;
- Employee training;
- Incident-response procedures; and
- Secure disposal practices.

No website, transmission method, or information system can be guaranteed to be completely secure. You are responsible for safeguarding your account credentials and for promptly notifying WWR if you suspect unauthorized account access or misuse.

To report a suspected privacy or security issue, contact:

12. Marketing Communications and Choices

You may opt out of WWR marketing emails by:

- Using the unsubscribe mechanism included in the email; or
- Contacting WWR at Mike@wwrigging.com

We may retain your email address on a suppression list to ensure that we continue to honor your opt-out request.

An opt-out applies to marketing communications. WWR may continue to send communications that are necessary to:

- Complete or administer a transaction;
- Provide an order or account update;
- Send an invoice or collection notice;
- Provide warranty, recall, product-safety, or security information;
- Respond to a request;
- Provide a legally required notice; or
- Maintain an ongoing business relationship.

13. Privacy Rights

Depending on where you reside and whether the applicable law covers WWR or the particular information, you may have the right to:

- Maintain product traceability;
- Honor a warranty;
- Address a safety matter or recall;
- Comply with tax, accounting, or legal obligations;
- Detect fraud or security incidents;
- Establish, exercise, or defend legal claims;
- Protect another individual's rights; or
- Preserve information subject to a legal hold.

B. Verification

WWR may take reasonable steps to verify your identity and authority before acting on a request. The verification method will depend on the nature of the request, the sensitivity of the information, and the information WWR already maintains.

WWR may request additional information where reasonably necessary to:

- Match you to our records;
- Prevent unauthorized disclosure or deletion;
- Verify that an agent is authorized to act for you; or

An agent acting under a valid power of attorney may provide the power of attorney instead of separate authorization, subject to applicable law.

D. Response and Appeals

WWR will respond within the period required by applicable law. We may extend the response period where permitted and will notify you of the extension and reason.

If WWR denies a request, we will provide the reason where required.

Where applicable law provides an appeal right, you may appeal by:

- Replying to the denial notice; or
- Emailing mike@wwrigging.com with the subject line "Privacy Request Appeal."

The appeal should identify the original request and explain why you believe the decision should be reconsidered.

WWR will respond to the appeal within the period required by applicable law. If an appeal is denied, we will provide information concerning any right to contact the appropriate state regulator or attorney general where required.

E. Fees

WWR ordinarily will not charge a fee for a privacy request. We may charge a reasonable fee or decline to act if applicable law permits us to do so because a request is manifestly unfounded, excessive, repetitive, or made more frequently than the law requires.

F. Nondiscrimination

WWR will not unlawfully discriminate against you because you exercised an applicable privacy right.

Exercising a right may affect our ability to provide a product, service, account, or requested feature where the information is reasonably necessary to provide it. This is not unlawful discrimination.
